Nine Steps for Emergency Plan Development

Foreword

Thank you for participating in the Nine Steps for Emergency Plan Development program. The partnership of provincial, municipal and First Nations communities is the cornerstone of an effective emergency management plan and public safety program. This manual and DVD project would not be possible without the hard work of many professionals who participated in its development. In addition, we would like to express our appreciation to Public Safety Canada and the Saskatchewan Emergency Planners Association (SEPA) for their contributions to this project and ongoing commitment to emergency preparedness.

This manual and DVD are designed to be one component of an ongoing process intended to assist in the development, implementation and maintenance of an effective public safety program in your community. We hope you find this material both informative and helpful in the development of your local emergency plan.

Emergency Management and Fire Safety is committed to promoting emergency preparedness, 9-1-1, fire and life safety education across Saskatchewan. The various programs offered have one common goal – to better prepare and protect the residents, property and environment of the province of Saskatchewan.

Aim and Objective

Aim:

The manual and DVD are intended to be used by local Emergency Coordinators and Emergency Management Organizations (EMOs) to facilitate Emergency Plan development and the enhancement of a public safety program.

Objective:

The objective of this project is to:

- Outline the legislative authority and program policy in support of emergency management.
- Provide a step-by-step process for communities to develop and implement an Emergency Plan for their community.

Introduction

Why have a Plan?

The reason for an emergency plan is simply that it saves lives and saves money. The aim of an emergency plan is to reduce the risk to life and health residents may face and to reduce the damage to property that often results from an emergency. It does this by allowing elected officials and other agencies in the community to prepare calmly and realistically for likely emergencies. It also helps to locate the resources and the equipment that will be needed, to inform their citizens of the dangers and the ways to avoid them and to quickly arrange help when help is needed. It is far easier to do all this before an emergency strikes rather than during the confusion that normally accompanies unforeseen and disastrous events.

Proper planning can reduce the long-term effects of both “human-caused” and “natural” disasters and help your community recover faster. It will also help you avoid the mistakes that are often made when an emergency strikes.

What are the chances of that happening?

The need to prepare for an emergency is closely connected to the perception of risk. It is not just the perception that a risk exists, but that it involves real and personal danger, that it has a fairly high probability of happening and that it is imminent - it could occur tomorrow, rather than some time in the future.

For example, if your community straddles a major highway or rail line where hazardous materials are regularly transported, your residents probably believe there is a reasonable likelihood of a serious spill, and with good reason. If your town is built on a flood plain, you can reasonably expect to face high water. Any prudent official should be prepared for those contingencies.

How does planning help?

Emergency planning helps local authorities anticipate problems and possible solutions. You will not be able to anticipate every emergency; however, you will be able to develop appropriate responses for a wide range of occurrences. Those responses will enable your community to react faster and more effectively, especially during the critical early hours of an emergency. Simply knowing who should go where and who does what, will help save lives and property, reduce damage and speed your community's recovery.

Small communities

Many smaller municipalities and communities act as though the risk of an emergency actually occurring is so remote that it is pointless to plan. A more realistic view is that smaller municipalities are more at risk from an emergency, simply, because they have fewer resources to utilize and because their emergency services are likely to have less experience in dealing with unexpected events than similar services in big cities. Emergencies can occur in any community, of any size. The following list shows some of the emergencies that occurred during the past 15 years throughout Saskatchewan. Most of them could have occurred in your community.

Authority

In Saskatchewan, municipalities are obligated to establish emergency plans by The Emergency Planning Act, 1989, which also empowers council to be responsible for the direction and control of a municipal emergency response (to take action to implement the plan and to protect the property, health, safety and welfare of the public). The legislation is mandatory - it requires municipalities to:

- appoint a municipal planning committee
- establish an Emergency Measures (Management) Organization (EMO)
- appoint an Emergency Coordinator; and
- prepare an emergency plan.

Only council or a member of council in the absence of a quorum (it is recommended it be head of council, or acting head) can officially declare a state of local emergency in a municipality and exercise the special powers the legislation confers on council. The Act protects municipal officials from personal liability for their decisions and actions, provided they are acting in good faith and are not grossly negligent.

The Government of Saskatchewan can also declare an emergency (by an Order in Council) and direct municipal resources, or direct one municipality to assist another during the emergency. The legislation also provides for recovering the extraordinary costs of responding to certain emergencies. A copy of The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 should be attached to a municipal emergency plan.

Step 1 – AUTHORIZE

Authorize Plan Development and Establish Your Emergency Management Organization (EMO)

In a bylaw, refer to The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 and the requirement/authorization for the development of the Municipal Emergency Plan and the establishment of an Emergency Management Organization (EMO).

First Nations Chiefs and Band Councils will establish Band Council Resolutions to authorize emergency planning within their communities.

Sample bylaws are attached. A sample Band Council Resolution is attached.

Draft the Bylaw or Band Council Resolution now.

Step 2 – APPOINT

Appoint an Emergency Coordinator and an Emergency Management Organization (EMO) Committee

Council should appoint the Emergency Coordinator (and Deputy/Alternate Coordinator) and members to the EMO Committee by resolution.

“Who should be EMO Coordinator for our municipality?” is a question that is frequently asked. Many smaller communities look to interested volunteers or municipal employees to fill this position. Some municipalities rely on their fire chief, police officers, emergency medical services personnel, elected officials or administrators as these persons are generally knowledgeable, capable and interested. When an emergency happens, however, they would likely be required at the emergency site or have other key roles in the EOC. That will not allow him to perform many of the other roles that the Emergency Coordinator would have in the emergency plan. Consideration should be given to not asking too much of a fire chief, police officer, emergency medical personnel and others that would have other primary responsibilities during an emergency. For a small town, village, RM, or First Nation it is generally recommended to appoint capable, interested volunteers as Emergency Coordinator and Deputy Emergency Coordinator.

Knowing the typical duties and responsibilities often help in confirming who may be the appropriate appointment. Sample typical duties and responsibilities for an Emergency Coordinator may be found at paragraph 5 of the Sample 1 bylaw used in Step 1.

The committee should have two components – the Executive Group (usually head of council and any other elected official(s), plus the emergency planning committee (more of a working group). The emergency planning committee should include a representative(s) from:

- Administration (the municipal or band administrator)
- Police (RCMP, municipal service or First Nations police service)
- Fire (chief or deputy chief of whichever fire department provides fire service)
- Regional Health Authority (emergency medical service, public health, hospital authorities)
- Public works (maintenance personnel or engineering department)
- Emergency social services (the coordinator of local volunteers to provide food, shelter, etc. to evacuees and emergency workers)
- Public information/media relations
- Animal management (veterinarian)
- Representation from schools or local school boards
- Transportation
- Telecommunications
- Other groups or agencies as required (key businesses, volunteer groups, etc.)

Decide now who Council should appoint as Emergency Coordinator and appoint to the EMO Committee.

Step 3 – STRUCTURE

Develop a Management and Control Structure

What is an Emergency Management Organization (EMO)? Basically, it is an organizational structure for emergency response. What should your EMO look like and what are its components? Every EMO should have the following basic components;

- Executive component – mayor/reeve/chief and council
- Emergency Operations Control Team – the Emergency Coordinator and various agencies coordinating the emergency response from the Emergency Operations Centre
- Emergency Site Team – those emergency responders combating the emergency at the site.

A sample organization chart is attached.

Design an organizational structure now.

Step 4 – IDENTIFY AND ANALYZE

Identify hazards and analyze risks

A hazard is a potential or existing condition that may cause harm to people or damage to property and the environment. Hazard Analysis is the identification of hazards and the impact of their effects on the community.

There are a number of relatively common Saskatchewan hazards; identify and prioritize the potential hazards in your community. Your emergency plan should be structured to allow a response to the impacts and effects of these hazards. Remember, you are not planning for the emergency itself. You are planning to respond to the impact of the emergency.

Using the following worksheet identify what are potential hazards for your community. Rate the probability of occurrence and the level of impacts (1 being a very low probability of occurrence/little or not damage could be associated with the event; 5 being a very high probability of occurrence/widespread damage could be associated with the event). Use this system to identify the top three hazards in your community.

A more comprehensive hazard analysis and risk assessment should be completed later in the planning process. Contingency plans can then be developed for specific hazards within your community. It is important to start with the basics.

Complete the following worksheet.

Step 5 – COMPILE

Compile a list of resources and prepare a Resource Directory.

Emergency preparedness usually doesn't involve buying new equipment specifically for emergency response purposes; instead it focuses on making the best use of existing resources. The directory is an essential component of every emergency plan. It tells you where to find a supply of bottled water or a front-end loader - or anything else - when you need one urgently.

Your resource directory should list everything and everyone you are likely to need in an emergency and provide a means of reaching them around the clock. The list on the next page shows typical entries. Your initial risk assessment may also suggest others. Keeping the directory current is absolutely essential; it should be checked and up-dated at least once every year.

Your resource directory should include contact names, business phone numbers, residence phone numbers, cell and fax numbers, mailing addresses, email addresses, etc. for contacts at the following types of agencies and organizations – this is a sampler only, there are many others to consider. It is also worth including a descriptive summary of the resource, for e.g. “Media – Radio KLAG, 580AM, Grenview Sk – coverage 100 sq kms, office hours for emergency public information, no weekend on-air staff”.

Each member on the EMO committee should be building their own resource lists. It should not be the responsibility of the Emergency Coordinator or the Administrator to compile resource lists for everyone. Everyone should be creating their own.

Step 6 – NOTIFY

Create your Notification System.

Fast and complete response to a developing emergency depends on an effective notification system. Communication is what makes your preparation work. Develop and establish a notification structure that includes a formal procedure for convening the EMO Committee and elected officials when necessary. Maintain a current fan-out list, including up-to-date contact numbers, and circulate it to the appropriate people.

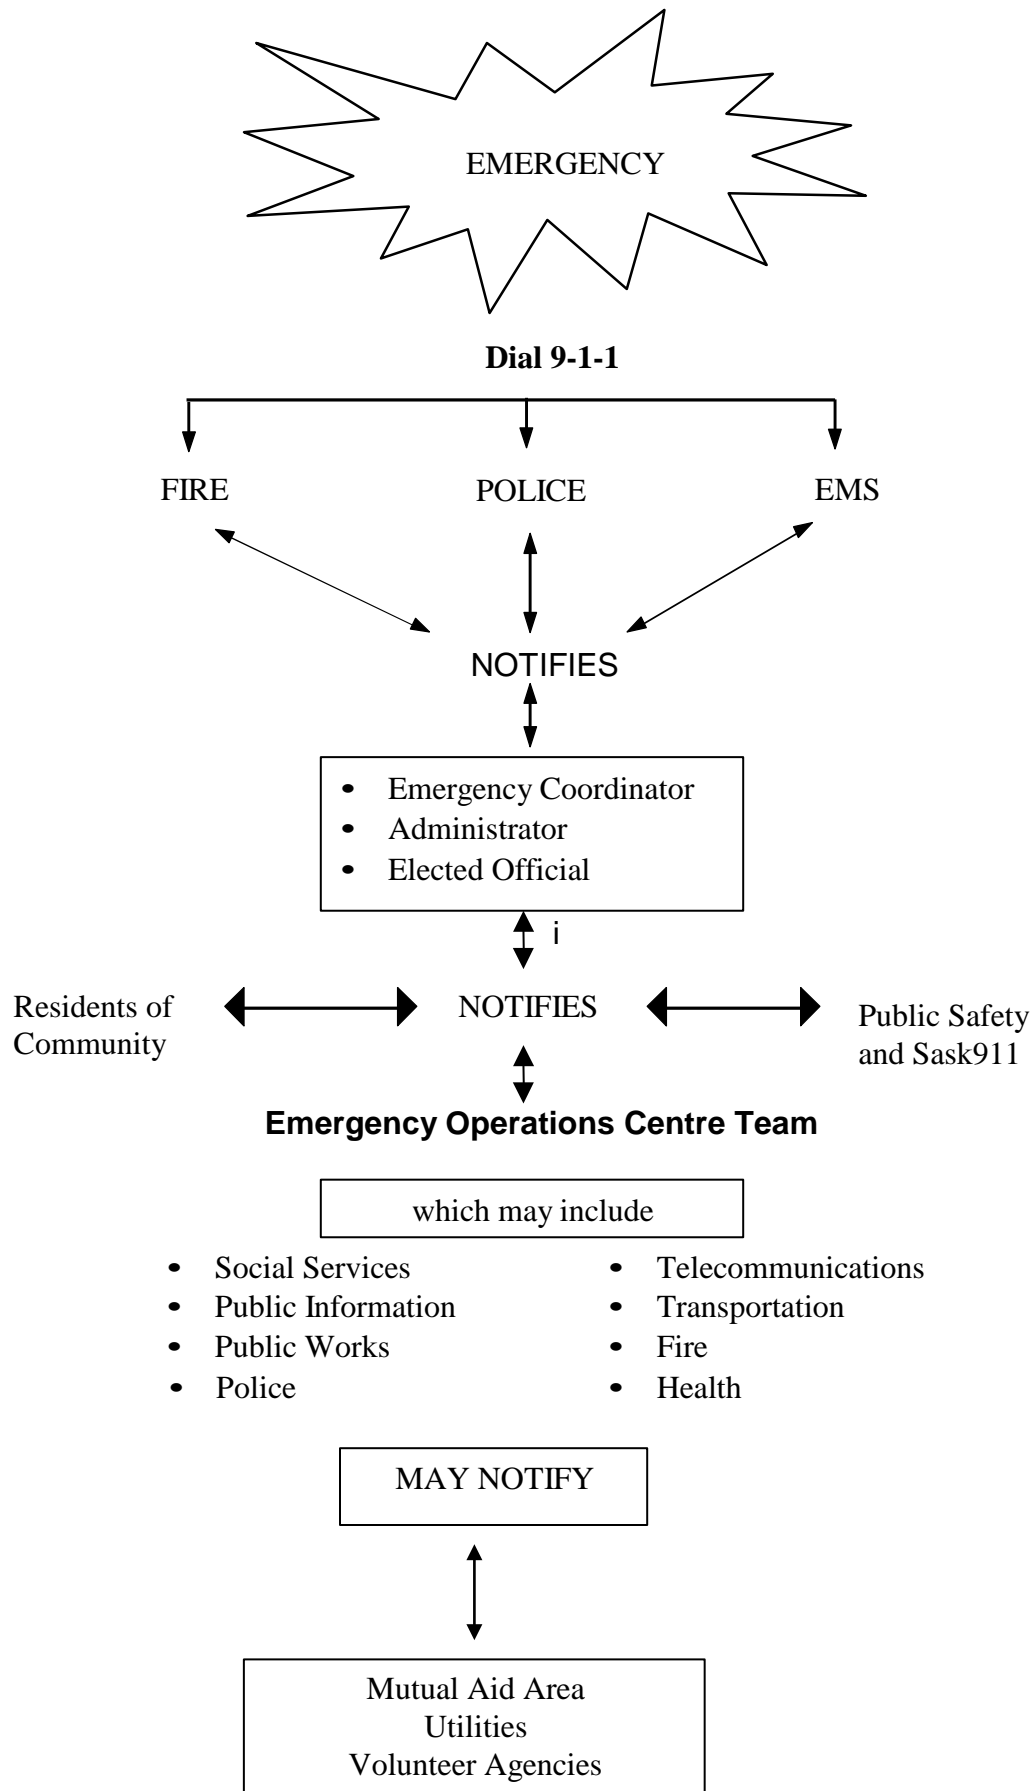

Most emergencies do not begin as a full EMO response. A call to 9-1-1 is often how first responders become aware of an emergency. As more people become aware of an emergency, the affected area increases or the emergency changes, more 9-1-1 calls are received. The emergency plan for your community should indicate the 9-1-1 Public Safety Answering Point (Call Center) that receives 9-1-1 calls for the entire area included in your plan. Further, you must know the dispatch agency that dispatches for the emergency medical services (EMS), fire departments or police agencies that you have included for mutual aid in your plan.

Do the dispatch agencies that dispatch your police, fire or EMS know how they relate to your emergency plan? Do they have a copy? Do you know how information collected at 9-1-1 or your dispatch agency reaches your EOC?

Dispatch agencies maybe able to assist you with initial notification of your EMO committee members. If your dispatch agency is aware of their role in your emergency plan they can help you during the first 30 to 60 minutes necessary to establish your Emergency Operations Centre (EOC).

This step can be one of the most interesting, frustrating, fascinating and controversial of all. What works for Town X, may not work for Town Y. Therefore, there is much flexibility in developing a notification system. Whether it is called a “Fan Out”, “Calling System”, “Alert System”, or “Warning System”, the aim is the same – to quickly advise those people and agencies with a role to play in an emergency that an emergency exists, or is imminent. Below is a sample system.

Develop a notification system now.

Like the Resource List developed at Step 4, what MUST accompany a notification system is handy, accurate and complete 24 hour a day contact information for your EMO. Keeping that contact information up to date is CRITICAL. A sample format is attached.

Define/Describe Responsibilities now.

Under Mayor/Reeve and Council's responsibilities it mentioned declaring a local emergency. Section 20 of The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 permits the Declaration of Local Emergency by a municipality. The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 indicates that in the absence of enough councillors to pass a resolution declaring the emergency, a (single) member of council can do it.

Such declarations can be essential, even critical, in enabling local authorities to take actions necessary to provide maximum protection to people, property and the environment. The declarations must be timely and one of the aims of the Act is to permit municipalities to act quickly.

It is a requirement that a copy of a declaration must be immediately forwarded to the Minister responsible for The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 (phone 1-306-787-9563 and fax 1-306-787-1694, Public Safety & Sask911). Written declarations must contain the following information:

- What is the nature of the emergency?
- What is the area of the municipality in which the emergency exists? (In other words, what area is affected or likely to be affected?)

Further, it should include:

- Who is making the declaration?
- When (date and time) is the declaration made?

A declaration form must record, at the very least, information answering the above questions. Attached are two samples of recommended formats. These could easily be adapted and used for any situation, but it is important to note that these samples are recommended drafts provided for convenience. These exact formats and words need not be the only ones used. Changes may be accepted, providing the above guidelines are met.

The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 requires that the Declaration of Local Emergency must be communicated by the most effective means to the majority of the public affected. Public notification of the Local Emergency could include the following:

- The reason for declaring a Local Emergency
- The area and/or extent of the emergency
- An appeal to the public to obey all orders issued by the municipality or authorities during the emergency
- An appeal to the public to stay clear of the emergency area
- Assuring the public that all emergency response personnel will be diligent in the discharge of their duties.

Here is a sample format for a public announcement of a declaration.

Emergency Operations Centre (EOC)

The organizational structure you developed and the responsibilities laid out should indicate that there is an Emergency Operations Centre. The primary location is often the municipal or band office, providing there is a back-up power source there. An alternate location might be a community hall, recreation centre or fire hall. It may even be in a neighboring community. It must be far enough away from the primary location that the same emergency will not make both unavailable. Consider alternate EOC locations within your Mutual Aid Area. These should be defined and described, including the layout.

A typical EOC layout should include:

- Main meeting room for EMO committee
- Separate location for council to meet
- Space for public information activities
- Space for media interviews and briefings
- Radio room
- Rest area including feeding area (if required) and washroom facilities.

Describe your municipal EOC now.

Step 8 – Communicate

Communications is key to combating an emergency.

The ability to receive and pass along information is critical. Normal telephone communications may be down as a result of the emergency. How will you communicate with your team, and how will the EOC communicate with those directly responding to the emergency at the site. Land lines? Cell phones? Radios? Amateur (ham) radios? FRS radios? These questions need to be answered before the emergency occurs.

How will you communicate? Here is a sample of a communications system for a municipal response.

Describe your emergency telecommunications system.

Step 9 – ORGANIZE AND PUBLISH

Organize and publish a draft plan.

Municipal plans can have a variety of formats and layouts. While there is flexibility in the format and layout, the core elements of the plan should be covered.

Here is a sample format and portions of a sample plan.

Sample Emergency Plan Format

Cover Page

On the cover, indicate the copy number and date of the Plan. The Plan will be amended frequently and it's good to ensure the latest at a glance.

Table of Contents/Index

It's easier to amend the plan when the various sections are physically separated, rather than one long document without page breaks.

Distribution List

The plans should be numbered and their distribution should be controlled. There is nothing worse than old copies floating around causing confusion. Also, some of the contact list information may be sensitive (unlisted home phone numbers, or cell numbers for example).

Consider copies for people and agencies such as your planning committee, your Emergency Operations Centre Team, Emergency Site Team, neighboring municipal Mutual Aid Area partners and Saskatchewan Public Safety & Sask911.

Introduction, Aim, Authority

Relatively brief statements outlining the purpose of the plan. The Authority section/paragraph should include reference to The Emergency Planning Act, 1989 and the municipal bylaws that authorize plan development and adopt the plan. Copies of the Act and the bylaw(s) could be included as attachments.

Hazard Analysis

Describe some of the emergencies that your municipality could face.

Management and Control Structure

Description of the components of your EMO. Include the organization chart. Describe the telecommunications system. List responsibilities that you came up with for officials and agencies.

Emergency Notification System

Description of the notification/call-out system that will be used. The Emergency Contact List could be included as an attachment. Refer to the resource list inventory attachment.

Emergency Operations Centre

Describe where it will be located and where the alternate location would be.

Local Emergency Declarations

Describe the authority and process of declaring and terminating local emergencies for your municipality. The format your municipality will use could be an attachment(s)

Plan Review, Exercises and Updates

Describe how often your planning committee will exercise, review and update the Plan.

Attachments

Emergency Planning Act, Bylaw(s), Resource Lists, Mutual Aid Area Agreements, maps and drawings, specific contingency plans.

EMERGENCY PLAN

1. INTRODUCTION (See Emergency Planning Act, 1989)

This plan is to provide direction for a response to an emergency affecting the Town of _____. It is important, that the Council and Mayor/Reeve and those persons who will be responding to an emergency know contents of this plan.

The elected officials will direct and control emergency operations at all times through the implementation of this plan.

This plan may be implemented in whole or in part, with or without a Declaration of Local Emergency. Use of the Emergency Powers found in Section 10 of this plan, requires a Local Emergency to be declared.

In the event that a Local Emergency is to be declared see Section 9.

2. AIM

The Town of _____ Emergency Plan will be implemented to prevent or limit:

- The loss of life;
- Harm or damage to the safety, health or welfare of people; or
- Damage to property or the environment.
- Continue and/or restore essential services

This emergency plan does not apply to those day-to-day situations, which are dealt with by the Fire, Police or Emergency Medical Services.

An emergency, by its very nature, requires an immediate response from various agencies acting on behalf of the Town of _____. A town, whose resources are exceeded in meeting the needs of evacuees, from another community, may declare a Local Emergency to acquire resources necessary to meet those needs.

3. HAZARD ANALYSIS (See Step 4: Identify and Analyze)

The Town of _____ has experienced or is likely to experience the following emergencies (for example; aircraft crash, forest fire, flood, dangerous goods accident, severe weather, utility outage, train derailment and health incident. A list of possible emergencies may be determined by completing a hazard analysis. Include only the emergencies you have identified through your hazard analysis and delete those not applicable)

4. EMERGENCY NOTIFICATION SYSTEM (See Step 6: Notify)

Upon the receipt of a warning of a real or potential emergency, that person will immediately contact one of the individuals listed under the Community Warning Section's Emergency Notification.

It is the responsibility of the members of the Emergency Operations Centre Management Team to notify their staff and volunteer organizations. The Emergency Operations Centre Management Team's phone numbers are under the Warning Section.

Where a threat of an impending emergency exists, the Emergency Operations Centre Management Team will be notified and placed on alert. The Emergency Coordinator or designate may open the Emergency Operation Centre in order to coordinate the response to the emergency and/or to coordinate public information.

5. IMPLEMENTATION OF THE EMERGENCY PLAN

Implementation of the plan, may be done by the Council and/or Mayor/Reeve, the Emergency Coordinator, or emergency services personnel.

Emergency response personnel may take such action(s) as may be required to protect lives and property in the Town of _____.

In the event of an Emergency, this Emergency Plan can be implemented without declaring a Local Emergency.

In any Emergency, call Saskatchewan Public Safety & Sask911 at (306) 787-9563, who will in turn, notify provincial departments and agencies.

6. EMERGENCY OPERATIONS CENTRE MANAGEMENT TEAM (See Step 3: Structure)

The Emergency Operations Centre Management Team will direct and control the response to the emergency. The Emergency Operations Centre Management Team will be responsible for providing essential services and resources to the community and to the Emergency Site Team. The Emergency Operations Centre Management Team will consist of the following:

Emergency Coordinator/Municipal Administrator, Transportation Manager, Police/RCMP or alternate (may be required at emergency site), Resources Manager, Fire Chief or alternate (may be required at emergency site), Deputy Municipal Administrator, Health Services, Public Information Manager, Emergency Social Services Director, EOC Administrative Officer, Human Resources/Volunteer Manager, Telecommunications Manager, Animal Management, etc.

(The above is a suggested membership of the Emergency Operations Centre Management Team for a larger town):

Insert Org Chart here. (See Step 3: Structure)

7. EMERGENCY OPERATIONS CENTRE (See Step 7: Delegate)

The Emergency Operations Centre Management Team will report to the Emergency Operations Centre located at _____. In the event that this operation centre can not be used, then the secondary location will be the _____.

The Emergency Coordinator will ensure the following responsibilities are considered and/or completed:

- Calling out municipal emergency services in response to the emergency.
- Confirming the appointment of the Emergency Site Manager (In consultation with the Council and/or Mayor/Reeve when possible). All responding emergency services must be informed of the appointment.
